The Lawrence High School baseball team, coached by Mr. Robert LeFebre, finished the season with a record of five wins-nine losses in the tough Essex County League. Highlights of the season were victories over arch-rivals Lowell and Haverhill by scores of 5-3 over the former and 9-1 over the latter. The Lancers were also involved in several close contests in which they came up on the short end, chief among these was a 2-1 loss to Beverly High in extra innings. Captain Ray Preston was one of Coach LeFebre's mainstays throughout the season. Ray proved to be an excellent catcher, a fine pitcher, and also leading hitter on the team. Juniors Dave Rozumek and Don Randolph also swung heavy bats for the Lancers. Senior Timmy Fallon pitched well for the Lancers throughout the season.

Cross Country, Indoor, and Now Outdoor Track

The 1971 Lawrence High School outdoor track team finished its season with a record of one win, six losses, and one tie in the Essex County League. The team, coached by Mr. Joe Twomey, had several outstanding individual performers but lacked the overall depth needed for winning track meets, hence its disappointing season record. The lone win of the season came against the Salem Witches in the team's first meet. In the Essex County League meet at the conclusion of the season the team finished third out of a field of seven.

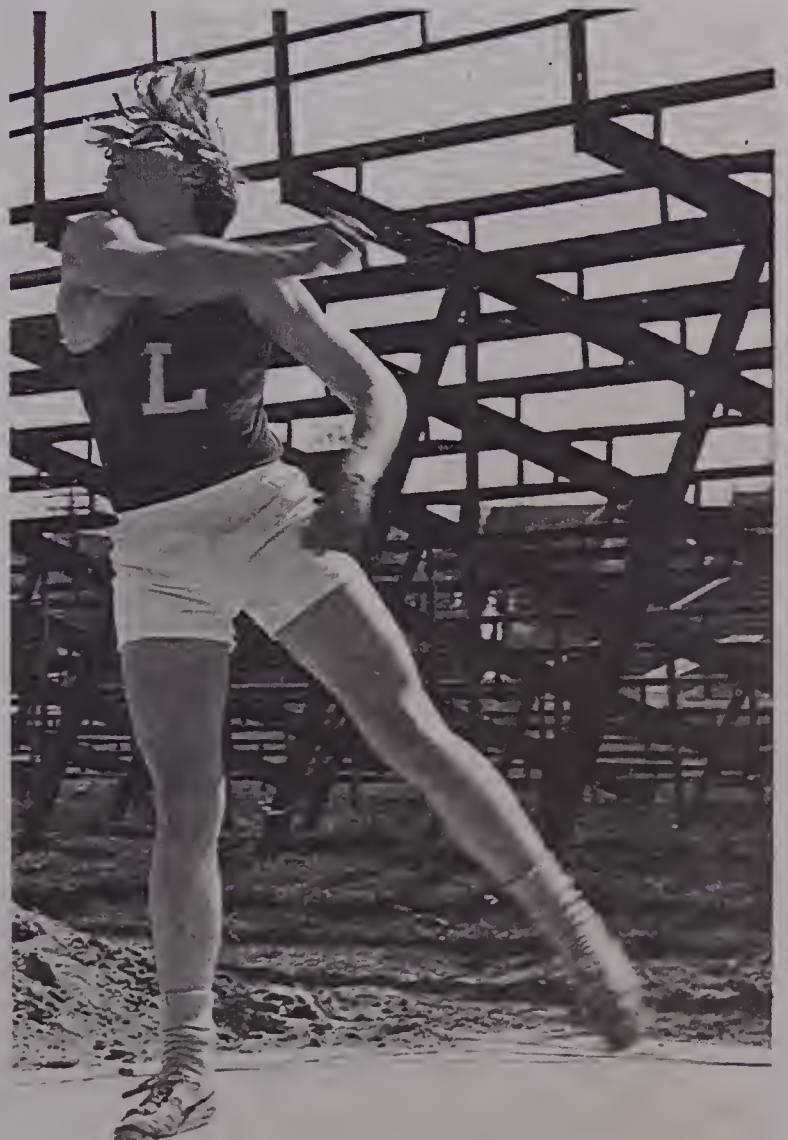

The team was led by its outstanding distance runner Captain Jim Kent who did not taste defeat once during the season. Jimmy was Class B state champion in the mile with a record time of 4:18.9, and all-state champion with a record time of 4:18.5. Jim capped off his outstanding high school career by winning the New England Championship in the mile with a time of 4:17.9. Another outstanding performer for Coach Twomey was Wally Roberts who was undefeated in the dual meet competition. Wally captured a fourth place in the Class B state meet and also set a new Lawrence High School record in the pole vault with a vault of 12' 3". Paul Alsup was the team's leading point scorer. The versatile Alsup competed in the 120 high hurdles and discus. In dual meet competition Paul was undefeated in the high hurdles while in the discus he was beaten only once. Three performers, all of whom were competing in track for the first time, who consistently scored first or second for LHS were Lou Ronsivalli in the 100 yard dash, Herb Harty in the javelin, and Jose Fernandez in the 120 low hurdles. Four veterans, Jim Sciuto in the long jump, Bill Ellard in the shot put, Ron Lucchesi in the discus, and Paul Brady in the mile, were reliable performers for the Lancers throughout the season.

Looking toward next year, the Lancers will be aided by the return of Bernie O'Rourke, a fine half-miler, and Bob Sullivan, an excellent two-miler.

Walt Roberts sets a new L. H. S. record in the pole vault, clearing 12' 3".

Paul Alsup sends the discus for a ride.

Bill Ellard gives an all out effort in the shot put.

Jim Sciuto gets off a good jump.

1971 Tennis Team

Although the game of tennis is relatively new to Lawrence High School athletics, under Coach Dennis Gosselin the Lancer Tennis Team showed promising talent as it battled its way to a satisfying 12 and 4 record. During the season, the Lancer netmen scored decisive victories over rivals Andover and Lowell, and finished in a second place tie with Andover in the Merrimack Valley League.

The Tennis Team lost only three seniors through graduation this year, so they are sure to be a formidable threat next season.

Faculty-Curriculum

Here they are—the hard-working, dedicated men and women who have given us an interesting and challenging curriculum. They have helped many young people to seek new horizons, to begin to live meaningful lives. We will be leaving them soon, but as long as we remember the lessons we have learned here, they will be a part of us.

We are fortunate in having studied under these good men and women, and we are grateful to them for all they have done to prepare us for the future that is just over the horizon.

Administration

Every pupil attending Lawrence High School has had occasion at one time or another to come into contact with members of the Administration. In most cases, he has found that the formidable-looking offices house very real and warm-hearted people.

Dr. Fritz Lindquist, our Superintendent of Schools, has been with us only a few short years. In that time he has done a remarkable job, earning the respect of students and teachers alike.

Mr. Griffin, our Assistant Superintendent, has spent a lifetime in the school system, in selfless devotion to the children of Lawrence.

Walking along the second floor corridor of Lawrence High School, one has the opportunity to see the remainder of these administrators at work.

In Mr. William O'Brien's office, one finds the Headmaster seated at his desk, which is usually piled with work. If the observer were to enter, he might be surprised by the fact that Mr. O'Brien is willing to put down his work and discuss any problem with a student who needs help.

The next administrator one notices is Mr. Kennedy. He, too, is a busy man. At any time throughout the day, however, he can be found helping, or sometimes disciplining, a young man who requires either of these things.

Further along the corridor, one finds Miss Abigail Condon, our lady sub-master. She is liable to be in the process of advising, helping, or disciplining a young lady. Miss Condon performs all of these functions with ease and competence.

Across from Miss Condon's office is Mr. Walsh, whose job is directing the Guidance Department. He is invariably talking things over with one or many students. His is one of the busiest offices in the high school.

At the end of the corridor, surrounded by athletes, one finds Mr. Ralph Wolfendale. His role is to serve as mentor, friend, counselor and general director to the students who compete for L.H.S. in any and all sporting events.

Needless to say, the wonderful work done by these administrators in performing their most vital jobs is greatly appreciated by both the faculty and the student body.

No matter what field a person enters, a command of the English language is necessary. Every American should know the basic grammar of his native tongue and have a working vocabulary broad enough to express himself intelligently.

To study Shakespeare, to understand poetry, to appreciate all literary forms and to enlarge one's vocabulary require a great deal of patience and effort on the part of both student and teacher.

The English Department has been working in curriculum committees this year, studying new texts with the intention of bringing more relevant material into the classroom and stimulating greater interest in pupils by providing them with high interest level reading. We expect to see next year many new books added to the curriculum.

This year's new reading course has proved to be very popular, with many pupils availing themselves of the opportunity to increase their reading skills.

The curriculum study presently being made will undoubtedly result in an even finer English Department than the one we now point to with pride.

Mathematics

Working side by side with science, math has become one of the most important fields in the world. It is the root of technology in fields ranging from astronomy to nuclear-physics. It has become a universally accepted language as a tool for all scientists.

Mathematics has an endless role in the modern world of today. Since the computer revolution continues to grow, more and more able and skilled mathematicians are needed to program. Math plays a vital part in the daily work of engineers whether they are designing thirty-story skyscrapers or growing quartz crystals from microscopic seeds.

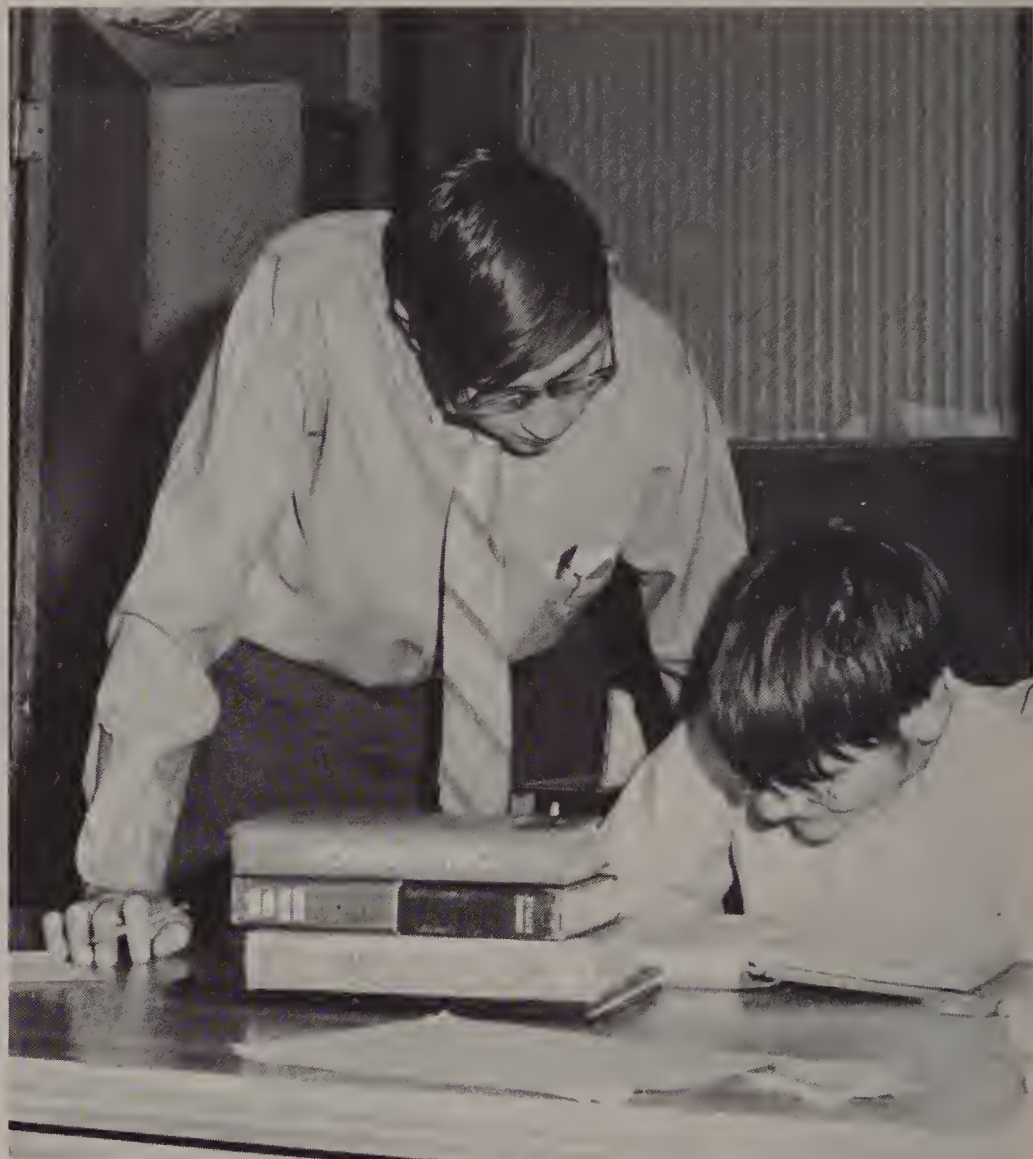

At Lawrence High the Mathematics Department is continually at work introducing and explaining not only the elementary concepts of math but also the latest developments in this complex field. Calculus, Trigonometry, Advanced Math, and the Math Lab, which consists of computers, reflect the modern spirit of the school, while Algebra and Geometry provide the fundamentals for them.

Latin

Latin—the language of the Roman Empire; Latin—the root for every major European language; Latin—Ugh! Will we ever forget those endless nights of memorizing declension after declension, conjugation after conjugation? Will we ever forget those infinite pages of vocabulary, translation and grammar? Will we? Yes, we probably will—but not one of us who studied Latin for at least a year and then went on to a modern foreign language will forget the great help that Latin has been in learning that language. It seems that because we took Latin first, half the battle was fought and won then.

We must accept the fact that, as a spoken language, Latin is dead, although after hearing it recited by a true scholar, and discovering its unique beauty, we can't help wondering how it ever went out of spoken existence.

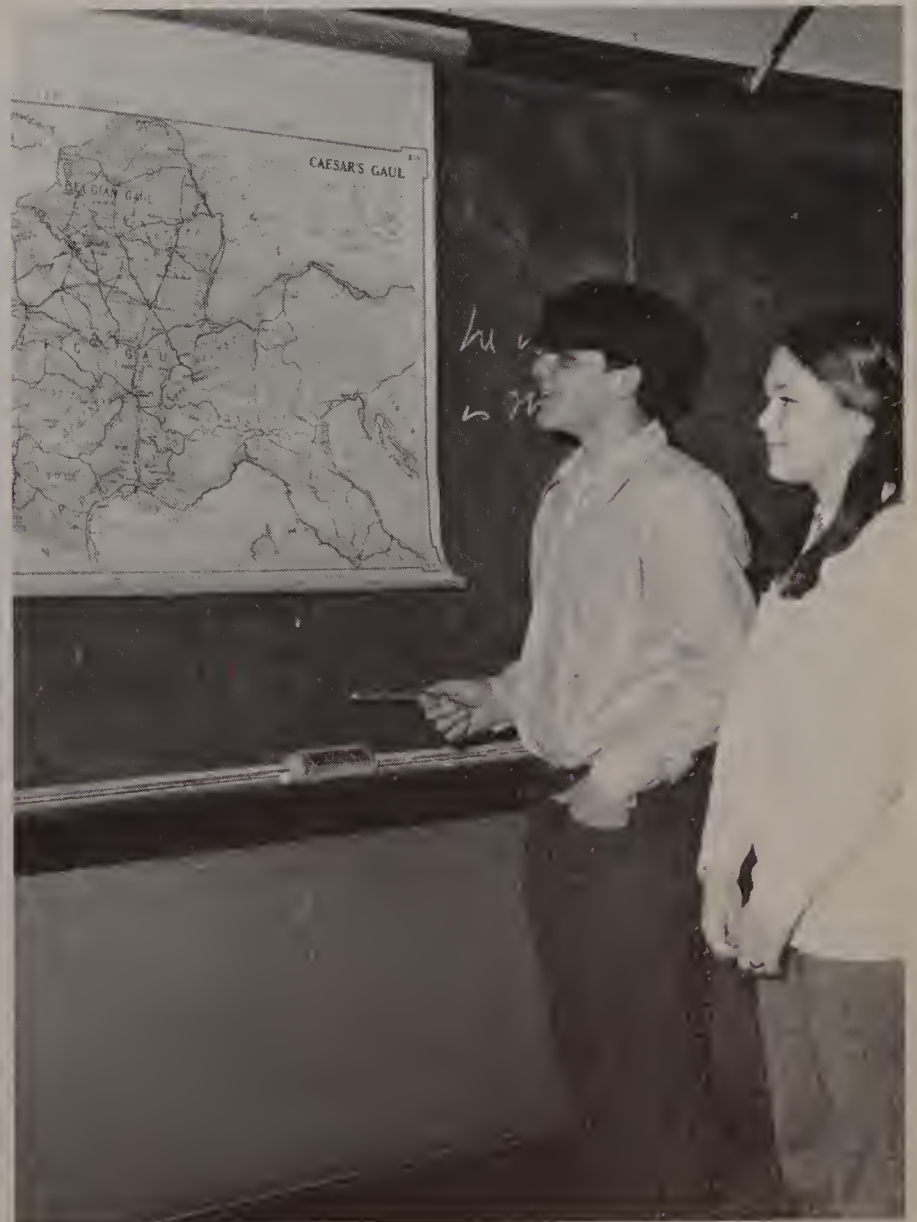

Somehow, there will always exist those special individuals who can appreciate what Latin has done for civilization, and because of them, Latin will never die. It will go on living in their hearts as it does in our curriculum.

Business

One necessity in every high school is a Business Department. While many other jobs are scarce, well-trained business people are always in demand. Glancing at the want-ads, one sees openings for secretaries, bookkeepers, typists, key-punch operators . . . this list goes on and on. Firms that place these ads will not hire just anyone. They want employees who know their jobs and also know how to deal with people. Lawrence High's Business Department teaches just these things.

When business students graduate, they have a solid background in typing, shorthand, and bookkeeping. They know how to operate a variety of office machines, including the duplicator, the key-punch machine, and the switchboard. Female graduates have had an opportunity to learn to improve themselves and to be pleasing to others through the weekly Charm Class.

These business graduates have many choices. Some will go on to another school and specialize in one field. They will become computer programmers, court stenographers, or medical and legal secretaries. Others will use their training to go directly into positions as clerks, telephone operators, receptionists, or bookkeepers.

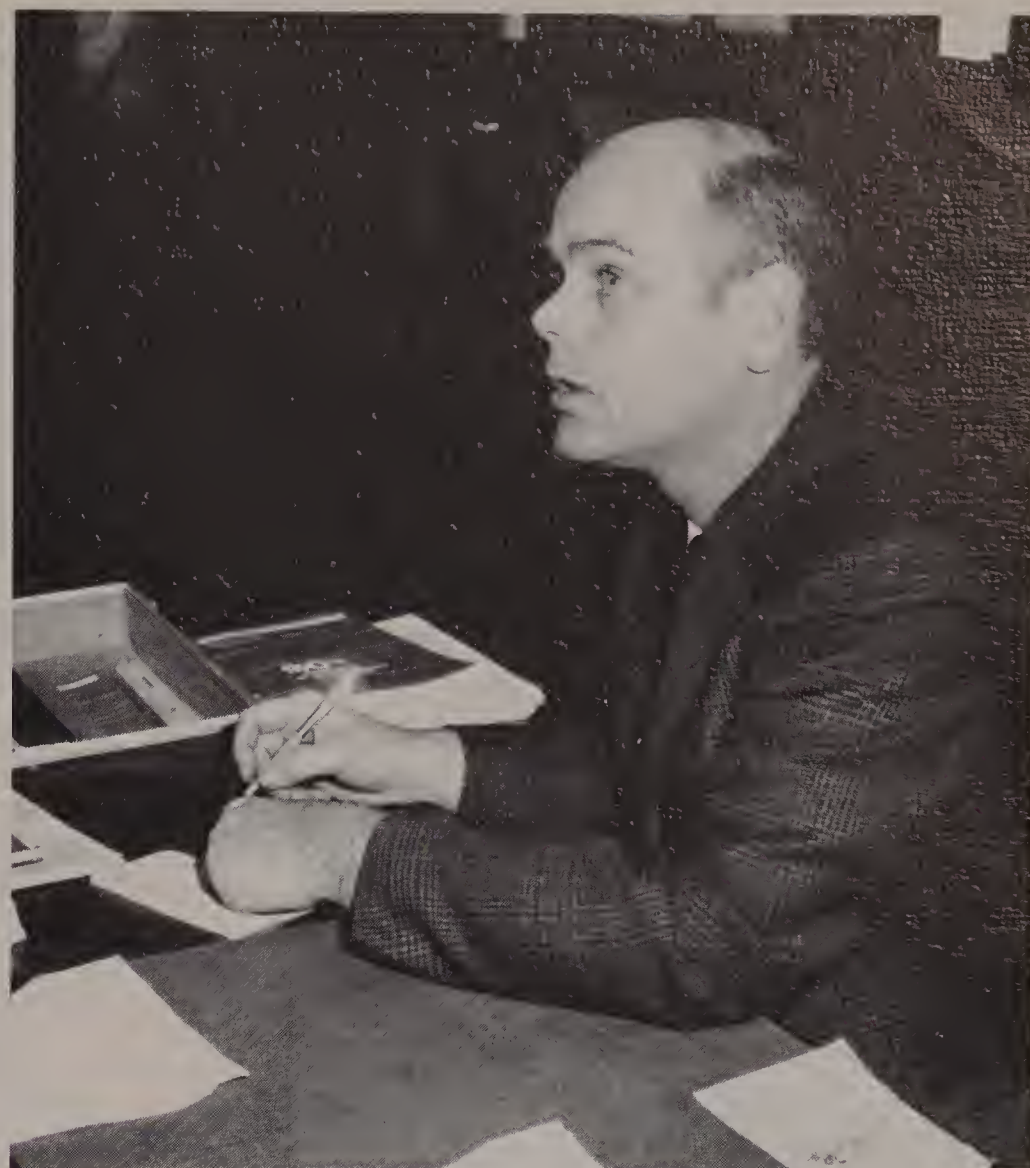

All of these students have two things in common. First come the fundamental skills which they have acquired. Secondly are the memories. What do business students remember? There are many things—the time a work sheet balanced on the first try, the struggle to learn a debit from a credit, the methodical typing of "asdfg" and, most of all, the patience, understanding, and abilities of the men and women who kept the whole course together—the Business Department teachers.

Languages

Wouldn't it be great if English were the only language? Or would it? There is such a feeling of accomplishment to be gained from learning another tongue. What remarkable insight on the part of the Lawrence High School Modern Languages Department, to provide incoming pupils with their choice of four languages! Hard-working students have the opportunity to excel in French, Spanish, Italian, or German. The teachers are interesting, the facilities modern and the rewards abundant.

Students spend the greater portion of their time in the classroom, concentrating on the fundamental skills, but once a week they put their knowledge to use in the language lab.

As one enters the lab, the whirring of tapes and the carpeted floor give one a feeling of power, and the complex-looking instrument panels only add to one's ego. However, once a student rewinds and plays back his tape, his ego is soon deflated. Sounds resembling those of primitive man come through the ear-phones, and one realizes that there is a great deal of room for improvement.

By the end of the year, however, the persistent student has overcome the obstacles and is now well on his way to mastering a foreign language.

Music

Music occupies a major place in this age of Aquarius, where revolutionary ideas and changes are being introduced every day. Musicians are more in demand than at any time in our history; music functions as a necessary part of our daily lives, and is no longer a luxury.

A young man or woman may be born with talent, but it takes a great deal of work and study to bring that talent to full flower. The course especially designed for our future composers and musicians is Harmony. Here, the mechanics of the art of music are taught, and after a short time studying Harmony, the student often wonders whether music shouldn't be classified as a science.

For the freshmen who take Choral Music, time, measures, harmony and the bass clef take on a new meaning. They find fun and fascination in music. This introduction can be followed in later years by Harmony and Music Appreciation.

While Music is one of our popular departments, it is not just "fun and games" for those who take it. We have many serious students who plan to build a career out of their introduction to music at Lawrence High School, and go on to further study. Perhaps one of them will make us famous some day.

Social Studies

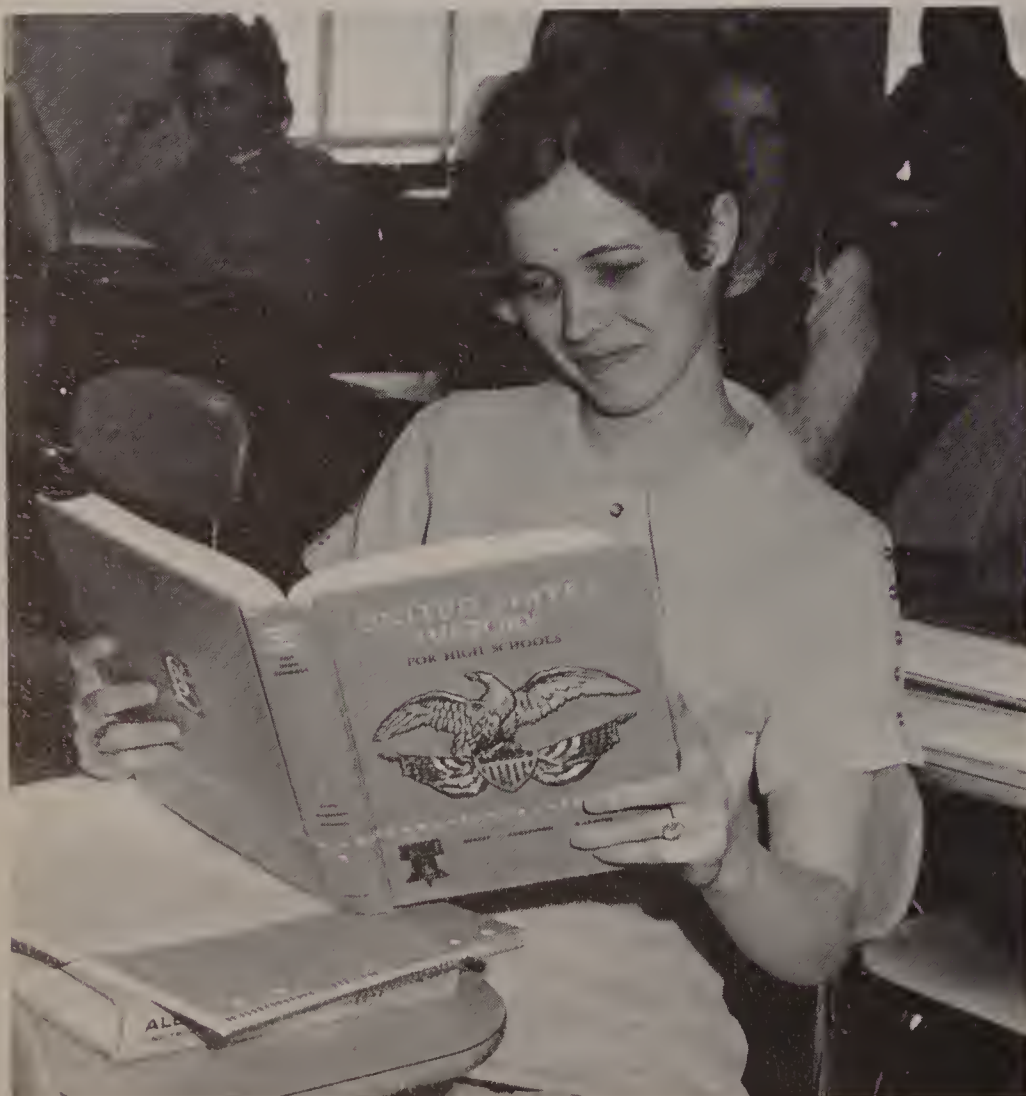

With this year's addition of Sociology and Economics, Lawrence High has broadened not only its Social Studies curriculum, but also its students' understanding of the world they live in. The curriculum now consists of Ancient, World and United States History, Sociology, Civics, Problems in Democracy, Economics and World Geography.

Because the high school years leave such a lasting impression in the minds of young men and women, it is important for young people to obtain some knowledge of their world by the time they graduate. Our Social Studies Department seeks to explain and interpret the origin and development of mankind. It helps the student understand the mistakes man has made in the past, and the need to prevent these errors from occurring again.

Through Social Studies courses, the student becomes more aware of and interested in his fellow man. He learns what was behind the fall of the Roman Empire, the Civil War or the making of a great country. Social Studies doesn't mean only a five-day-a-week course; it means the full time preparation of a student's future as a responsible citizen.

Public Speaking

Here it is—the one course of which most incoming seniors are "unspeakably" terrified! The very idea of getting up in front of a sizeable group of people and speaking to them extemporaneously leaves almost everyone doubting his ability to "think on his feet". However, with the gentle encouragement of Miss Shine, every senior manages to survive that first appalling experience.

The second assignment of the year is a radio script, followed closely by an impromptu speech. Slowly, but surely, we find ourselves developing that poise and self-confidence for which we were yearning just a few months earlier. An instructional talk is our next assignment. We spend hours in preparation and then discover that it is rather easy, once one has attained the amount of polish required.

Looking ahead, we all realize that this at first seemingly distasteful course is necessary to prepare for any career. What walk of life does not require that its practitioner possess some achievement in the art of public speaking? Some years hence, we will all look back on these experiences, and laugh at our naiveté—but try to make an incoming senior understand that!

Art

Latent creative ability comes to the surface in the Art Department. The eager young artist is provided with a variety of experiences in the appreciation and understanding of art forms. He is encouraged to express himself through figure drawing, basic perspective, collage, sculpture, block printing, lettering, poster design and work in pencil, ink, crayon and paint. An intermediate course delves more deeply into the study of art philosophies and gives the student an opportunity to explore new materials and techniques, draw and paint layouts and learn more about design, figure drawing and sculpture.

The advanced courses strive to develop greater freedom of expression and creative skill. Specific areas stressed include expression through still life, painting, illustration and linoleum block printing. Those pupils who plan to attend art school find themselves well-prepared for their artistic lives ahead.

Guidance

There was a time, we understand, when schools did not have Guidance departments. We can just imagine the janitors sweeping up all the unsolved problems that littered the corridors at the end of the day! Whatever our hang-up is, we take it to Guidance, where half a dozen sympathetic people await our pleasure. Truly, they are sympathetic, and they are patient, for we admit to being average adolescents. We admit to having changed our minds about careers dozens of times since we were freshmen. We admit to listening to the very good advice we were given, leaving the Guidance office at peace with the world and a week later seeing a television program about oceanography, or cartography, or computer programming or anything different or unusual, and it was back to Guidance!

We have all gone through the where-are-my-college-board-results syndrome. There must have been times when we were unbelievable pests, convinced that our own problems were the only problems in the world—amazed that anyone would have time to give to freshmen who were going to live in the womb of high school security for another three years, when we were about to be set loose in a world that might just not be ready for us.

If all this is true, and we are pretty sure it is, we would like to thank the members of the Guidance Department for all they have done for us, for their patience and long-suffering, their great senses of humor and their concern for our futures.

Home Economics

Among the female population of Lawrence High School, there are many girls who will go on to college. On the other hand, there are just as many who will go to work or get married. All of these girls have one thing in common. At some time in their future lives, they will be required to take care of themselves and possibly a family. How well they perform these jobs will depend on their knowledge of such basics as cooking and sewing.

Some of these girls will be unprepared for this aspect of their lives. Others, especially those who have taken the Home Economics course, will be very well prepared. As a part of their high school education, these students will have learned to cook, which everyone will agree is a vital task. They will also have learned to plan balanced diets, to shop economically and to handle a basic family budget.

In addition to these skills, they will have studied sewing and dressmaking. This year, the Home Economics students exhibited their handiwork in a fashion show, which convinced many girls that Home Ec was a course to take.

In the future, one can visualize girls who have not taken Home Economics struggling to manage their households. In comparison, those who have had this training will be performing their tasks easily and efficiently.

Library

Reading is the basis for all learning, and the best place to find the proper books and other aids to learning is the library. Lawrence High School is proud of its library and its librarian, Mrs. Palm, who has taken great interest in our students. Mrs. Palm's knowledge and enthusiasm has gone a long way towards stirring up interest in and use of our library. She has brought the decor up to date with posters, flowers and book jackets; she has enlarged the library to a degree that is hard to believe in one year, and claims that this is only the beginning. She has made the library a living place—the place to go in the high school. No greater proof of this is needed than a simple walk down the fourth floor corridor; the increase in the number of students taking out books, doing research or sitting quietly studying is a testament to her knowledge, skill and interest.

The L.H.S. Library is very popular.

Manual Arts

Almost from the moment one becomes a member of the Manual Arts Department, one is surrounded by machines! As the world of industry prospers, the need for well-trained personnel increases; as the competition grows keener, the Manual Arts Department must be changing constantly to "keep up".

The young man who plans to terminate his formal education in high school will find that here he can quench his thirst for the advanced technical skills.

Emphasizing vocational preference, these courses follow a well-balanced plan, adapting the student to enter with common sense and know-how the fields of auto mechanics, where he learns to deal with all of the problems that can result from a faulty engine; machines, which acquaint the student with the various power and hand tools; electronics, where he learns principles and projects applicable to home and industry; printing, where he learns to set type and turn out the school newspaper, the Lawrencian; and woodworking, where he learns to use the hand and power tools common to the woodworking arts.

The great and prosperous industries of these United States want only those young men who are ambitious and well-prepared, and the Manual Arts Department is ready to supply them.

Science

How does the study of science affect our lives? There are many ways. Stimulating instruction spurs each one of us on to acquire more and more scientific information. Through numerous laboratory periods we become accustomed to the technical methods used in research. We develop a "common sense" (which we probably never realized we were lacking) through our logical experimentation.

We find ourselves hopelessly mistified by the fact that although we are small compared to the vast universe, there are limitlessly powerful things so very small that an electron microscope must be used to see them.

Without the diligent work of scientists, we realize that many of our modern conveniences such as electrical appliances, medical discoveries, ecological water purification systems, would never have existed.

Our science department strives daily to bring these and other facts to our attention. Each year its curriculum is updated to keep abreast of scientific discoveries. Many of its students, having been led into this new, fascinating world, go on to higher education in one of the numerous scientific fields. Others, who are not so moved by this insatiable desire for more scientific knowledge, surely realize that in today's world, not having a basic knowledge of scientific principles is as much of a handicap as illiteracy was a century ago.

Physical Education

If a person were to spend a day sitting in Lawrence High's gymnasium, he would very likely witness as many different activities as there are classes during this time.

First Period's class plays a lively game of basketball. Participants race up and down the court, obviously enjoying themselves. At the sound of the whistle, however, both teams stop and good naturedly accept whatever penalty the referee, who is also the teacher, issues. Good sportsmanship occupies a very important place in the physical education curriculum.

When the bell rings, another group of students arrives. They limber up by doing calisthenics in time to music, and then play volleyball. They, too, are having fun while they develop poise and co-ordination.

Other classes during the day might engage in such activities as running races, shooting baskets, dancing, climbing ropes, walking on the balance beam or even learning a little Yoga.

Having fun, developing poise and co-ordination, learning how to play the game, practicing good sportsmanship—all of these things are important in physical education classes.

Obviously, the people behind all this are the teachers. One notices that while they maintain a friendly relationship with their students, they still command respect. Perhaps this is due to the fact that the students realize how devoted to their jobs the teachers, who also serve as athletic coaches, really are. Their devotion is certainly justified when one considers the importance of the work done by the physical education teachers in shaping the character of tomorrow's adults.

Non-English

The city of Lawrence, because of its industrial nature, has from its very beginning attracted immigrants, who have been absorbed into the life of the community after a period of re-adjustment to a new land. These new citizens are still appearing, and in the last few years their number has grown until now the city has a ten percent non-English speaking population. The languages the newcomers to our high school speak are various, but these young people have one common need—to learn English, so that some of the fright, and the strangeness, and the inability to meet new people and make new friends, will disappear.

These non-English speaking pupils soon find that they do have friends here—friends who can converse with them in both their native language and the one they must learn to make their adjustment complete. Their teachers in the non-English classes understand their bewilderment and their fright. They also understand the customs soon to be forgotten, and the difficulty of adjusting to a whole new way of life. They help these young people in ways that go far beyond text books, phonics and the alphabet. They are friends in a strange world, where not everyone understands. They are interpreters when things go wrong and they listen when no one else can, or will. They “take the time” when everyone else is busy. Theirs is a very important job. All teachers try to turn out good citizens. The non-English teachers start from scratch, and turn out brand new ones.

Our Office Friends

Some of the most friendly, helpful and courteous people in Lawrence High are found in the main office. Their jobs are legion. They mail transcripts, file, type letters, operate the switchboard, and send out those million and one cards and forms to homerooms for pupils to fill out. Are you looking for a certain pupil? Teacher? Go to the office. Someone there will tell you where to find him. We NEED Mrs. Mendonsa, Mrs. Bateman and Mrs. Choquette—but more important than that, we appreciate the cheerfulness they bring to the school.

Down the hall a bit is the clinic, where Miss Guenette waits to hear our tales of woe—a headache that just might be a History ache, or an aching cavity that more truthfully might be described as an aching Chemistry (test). From the gleam in her eye, it's pretty obvious that the lady can tell the phony from the real. We appreciate Miss Guenette's efforts to make us comfortable when she knows we are sick.

Across from the clinic, Mr. Cain presides over truantries. His is a difficult job, for he, too, must separate the real from the unreal. While we sometimes glance in his direction with a wary eye, we realize that there are those of us who must be nudged to do the right thing, and undoubtedly some of us will owe the fact that we are able to graduate at all to Mr. Cain's vigilance—and this is truly something to remember with gratitude.

There are not many departments which are able to present material evidence of their students' abilities. In most subjects, the mind hoards its new knowledge. It is there, but it cannot be seen or touched.

The exception to this rule was very adequately demonstrated this year by the Home Economics Department. Girls from this department, with the help and guidance of their teachers, exhibited their sewing skills by presenting a fashion show.

This show was open to all pupils and teachers, and it represented the efforts of both beginning and advanced students. Fabrics ranging from cotton to wool were used to make the girls' outfits, with experienced sewers attempting difficult styles, and beginners using simple designs. All of their industrious efforts resulted in a huge success.

Every phase of fashion was included in the show. Some girls modeled minis, others midis, and still others maxis. Styles went from casual at-home pant suits to fancy party dresses and included school and work clothes. Skirts of all lengths mingled with pants of all widths and altogether, these outfits enabled a viewer to take a wide look at what young people of today are wearing.

This fashion show set a precedent at L.H.S., one that will hopefully be followed by many more—all equally successful.

All eyes are on Linda McKinney.

The Fashion Show was enjoyed by all.

Extra-Curricular

Backgrounds with a new look

perfect

If it is true that we have just begun our lives following high school graduation, then certainly high school has played an important role in preparing us for these future lives. Through our extra-curricular activities, we have had an opportunity to better ourselves both mentally and physically. Equally important, we have learned how to accept responsibilities, make decisions, and work cooperatively with other people.

We will begin our new lives walking slowly and unsurely, but will gain confidence and learn to run when we are able to draw on our high school extra-curricular experiences for help in any situation.

Student Congress

Inaugurated last year, the Student Congress was formed to bridge the gap between the administration and the student body. The members, who are elected in homeroom, hold meetings regularly to discuss current issues about the school.

Through their actions, the dress code was revised to its present standards. The success of this group proves that loud protesting is not the only way changes can be made.

Senior Class Officers and Homeroom Representatives

Everyone knows that the most exciting job of the senior class officers and homeroom representatives is organizing our prom. This affair has always been a great success, proving that their efforts were always well worth the trouble. However, is anyone aware that this group also does the planning for Class Day, Alumni Night, and other memory-makers?

Besides being so involved in social events, they play a major role in the Student Congress. As the oldest members of the student government body, their duty is to set an example for the new officers to come in next year's senior class.

The Lawrencian

Ann congratulates Tom on work well done.

Every high school, no matter how large or small, has a communications system. This system includes the talk that circulates around the school, the announcements that are read over the public address system, and, of course, the student newspaper.

Lawrence High's paper, The Lawrencian, is put together and printed entirely by students, with the help of faculty advisors. Some of the staff members prepare and proofread the copy, others distribute the paper, and still others perform the enormous task of setting up and printing each edition. Needless to say, these students do quite a lot of work, and are often under a good deal of pressure. Staff members enjoy their work, however, and look at each issue with a feeling of real accomplishment. When the last Lawrencian is printed, they have more than just memories of reporting, writing, printing, distributing, and meeting deadlines—they also have a lot of valuable experience which will benefit them in the years to come.

The Bulletin

Many years ago, when Lawrence High School consisted only of the old building, students began publishing a literary magazine called The Bulletin. Material for the magazine consisted of poems, essays, and short stories written by the students themselves. This magazine was printed for quite a while and for one year had the distinction of being edited by Robert Frost, who went on to become the famous poet. Then it was discontinued, and the student publication became a newspaper, which occasionally published poems and essays.

Mr. John Lukas, an L.H.S. English teacher, along with a group of students, decided that we still have a definite need for a literary magazine. Therefore, The Bulletin has now been revived. Students contribute poems and articles written especially for The Bulletin and also class assignments such as book reports, essays, and speeches. This magazine provides interesting and enjoyable reading for students and faculty and a great deal of knowledge concerning creative writing for contributors. Altogether, reviving The Bulletin has proved to be a worthwhile and practical idea.

Forward, ladies, to a bigger and better Bulletin.

The training the Speakers' Club provides can be valuable to those who are about to go into the world to seek their fortune. It's no wonder that the members of the Speakers' Club are so articulate!

For the science-minded students among us, membership in the Biology club is a must. It's goal, to broaden students' knowledge of this fascinating subject, provides an excellent way to learn more about how life in one form or another exists around us. It gives young people the opportunity to explore and discuss topics for which the regular class period does not provide enough time.

Field trips encourage first-hand observation of subjects studied in the classroom. The trip to the Agassiz Museum at Harvard is an annual event, and for the real aficionado, it's like a pilgrimage.

Italian Club

Languages are certainly man's most valuable means of communication, but merely the mechanics of a language is not enough, as members of the Italian Club know. This group is dedicated to learning something of the customs and daily life of the Italian people, and the geography of the country. At its monthly meetings, under the supervision of Mrs. Eleanor Kelley, members recreate the feeling of Italy in many ways, using educational filmstrips and recordings, with the additional attraction of occasional guest speakers.

Can't make it to Italy this year? Why not try the Italian Club? "It's-a nice!"

Spanish Club

With the addition of Spanish 3 to the Lawrence High School Course of Study, the Spanish Club started a new era. Spanish-American students took the course with enthusiasm and joined the club, giving it a new dimension. Members now learn from each other, in this melding of the old and the new worlds. The Spanish Club works actively to promote understanding, so that newcomers to our community will make friends, and find their way more easily in an atmosphere that must at times seem very strange to them.

Members invite any student of Spanish to join their group. It's fun, it's rewarding, and there's always room for one more!

History Club

Every Lawrence High student is required to take a course in United States History. In addition to this, many students also study World History and Ancient History. History Department teachers are concerned with making students aware of the history which is happening right now, as well as that which happened in the past.

Since not too much time can be spent on current events in class, the History Club serves a dual purpose. First, it gives a student better knowledge of the subject matter. Second, it tries to educate its members in the history of today. It does this by holding discussion groups in which students talk over and try to solve world problems. History Club members are also active in trying to make the rest of the student body aware of what is going on in the world around them.

This club performs a definite service for every student in Lawrence High, not only for its members, and does a good job in shaping the character of tomorrow's adults.

French Club

Pupils of any foreign language, in order to acquire a broad knowledge of the country of its origin, must investigate more than grammatical principles and phonics. The French Club is a great place to learn more about French. Members converse informally in what they hope is excellent French; they play Scrabble in French; and they occasionally go on a delicious field trip to a French restaurant. These and other activities related to the country make the study of French more meaningful, and a lot more fun. Miss Grimley advises.

Rick Kurman compares French magazines with Cathy Hughes.

Girls' Debating

Each fall, a group of ambitious young women get together and reorganize the age-old club, The Girls' Debating Society. With the advice and guidance of Miss Julia McCarthy, the girls meet on Thursday afternoons to discuss and debate such timely topics as the availability of funds for the new Lawrence High School; the need for a new high school in Lawrence; Urban Renewal; the Space Program as opposed to the Poverty Program, and other topics suggested by members.

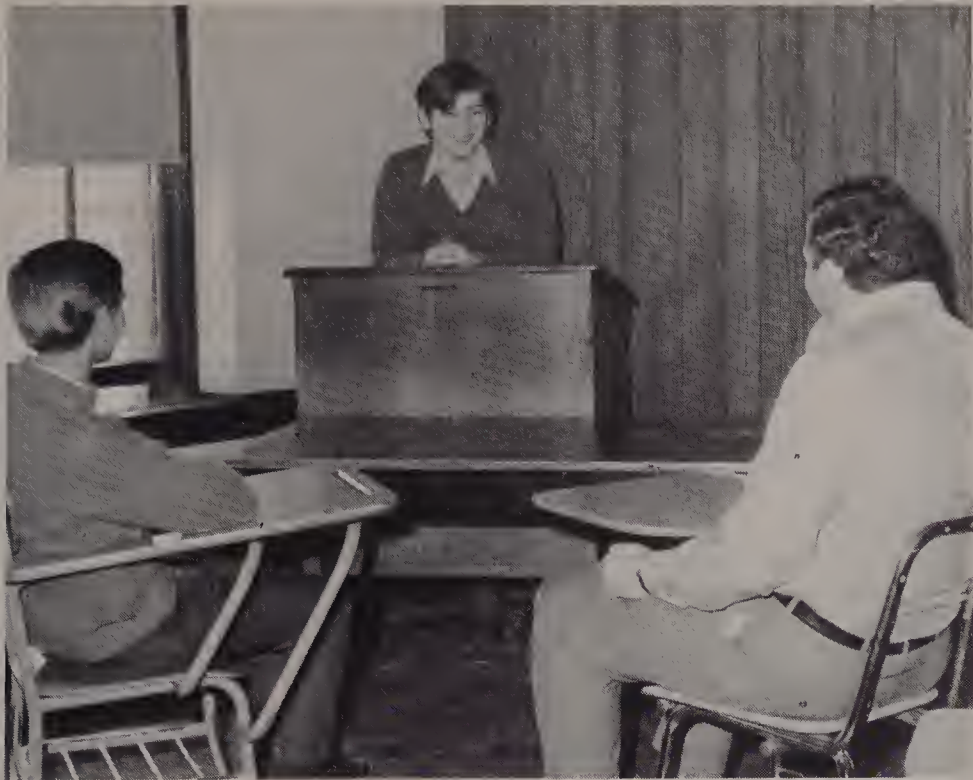

Learning to articulate well and gaining poise and charm are the main objectives of the group. Every member certainly develops these qualities in the course of the year—but what is more important is that each has fun doing it!!

Boys' Debating

One of the oldest organizations in Lawrence High School, the Boys' Debating Society maintains the traditions begun years ago by its founders. Although members now carry on their discussions in an informal manner, rather than adhering rigidly to parliamentary rules, they still feel that they gain much in developing poise, self-confidence and articulation from membership in their group of fast talkers.

The German Club

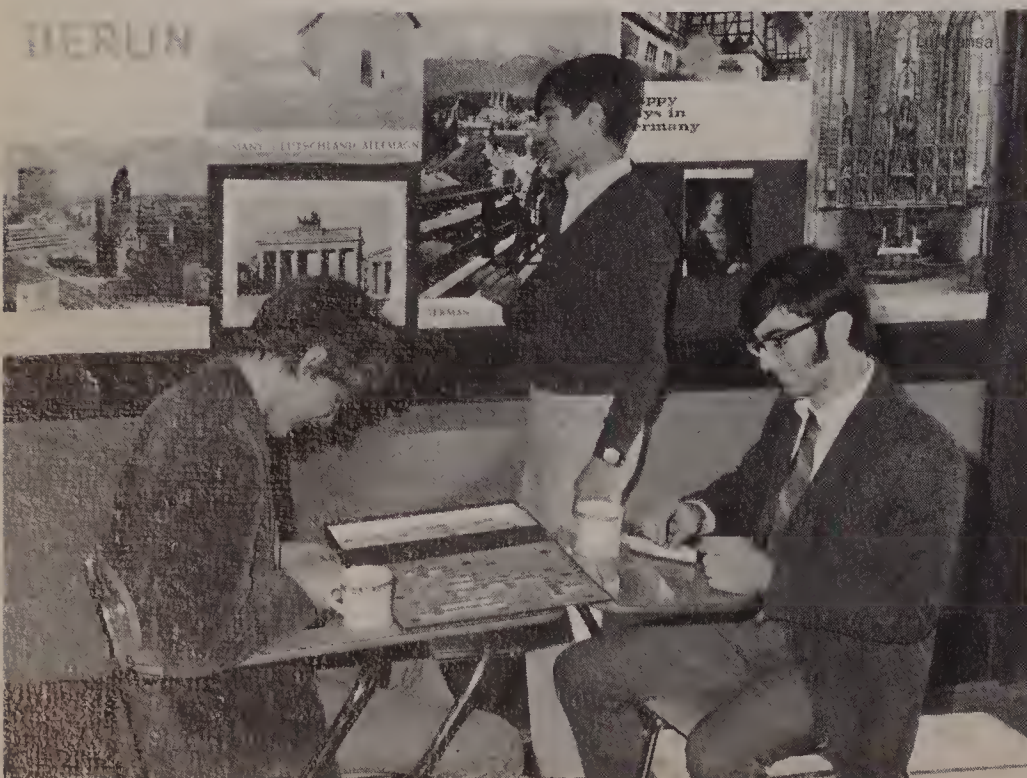

The 1970-71 edition of the German Club was under the direction of Mrs. McComiskey. Members met every other week to enhance their knowledge of this most fascinating country. There is a dedication in those who love German that is unique, and a curiosity that is insatiable. The German Club, with its books, magazines, films and filmstrips and occasional fieldtrips helps to satisfy this dedication and curiosity.

Glee Club

Students who attend Lawrence High School are offered a wide variety of courses. Each of these courses adds to the student's knowledge and helps him to become a more well-rounded individual. Many courses are supplemented by clubs in which a student can go beyond class work in the study of a particular subject.

In the Music Department, the Glee Club performs this task plus another one. Music students can get further involved in their subject by joining the Glee Club. There are others, however, who have never been able to fit a music course into their crowded schedules. By becoming members of the Glee Club, they, too, can benefit from a knowledge of music.

In addition to helping individuals, the Glee Club does much for the school as a whole by providing music for various school functions. Altogether, the Glee Club is one of the most active and appreciated clubs in Lawrence High.

Susan, Shirley, and Paula are three happy Glee Club members.

Pep Club and Rally

One of the hardest working clubs in Lawrence High, inspiring the student body with school spirit, and loudly voicing its encouragement at every game, the Pep Club leads our athletic teams if not always to victory, then at least to do their best.

The two biggest functions of the club are the annual rallies held before the Central and Lowell football games. For at least a week in advance, members work furiously preparing their routines, signs and slogans. They deserve to be congratulated for the great contribution they make to the school spirit and enthusiasm of the student body.

Our Lancer is ready for a joust.

Band

Under the direction of Mr. Oswald Vogel, the band has proved to be a major asset to our school. Its top quality performance is the result of numerous hours of practice in both precision and coordination.

As a marching band, it is a highlight of parades and football games. In concert, it provides hours of entertainment and relaxation for those in our community who appreciate good music.

Senior members are rewarded for their efforts with a trip to New York during the April vacation, and a banquet in June, when trophies are awarded to the officers.

Experience with the band has started many of its talented members on the road to a successful musical career.

Row 1—Arthur LaCharitie (flag bearer), Kathleen Porter, Ann Noble (lieutenant), Judy Najem, Kenneth Najem, Gerald Santomassimo (drum major), Mary McDonald, Debra Budd, Elias Basabis, Jose Neves, Mr. Oswald W. Majorettes

Why go to Broadway when we have the Lawrence High School Majorettes in our own city! Through intensive training, each girl masters both the baton and the necessary coordination in which majorettes excel. Long hours of practice result in extraordinary performances, and their superb twirling and marching talents highlight our football games, rallies, spring concerts and parades.

Their energetic efforts have made it possible for the majorettes to finance their chic new uniforms, as well as a spring trip to New York with the band.

They are feminine, agile, coordinated—and ours!

Sue Hambleton models the old uniform.

A new addition to the band, the drill squad has performed uniquely during half time programs at the football games. The girls proudly displayed their "L"s as they marched down the field in uniform precision with their famous blue and white skakers. Their "sharp" white boots prepared them for the type of weather that often accompanies our football games.

For many of their routines, the girls were often adorned with flags, ribbons, umbrellas or pom-poms. They undoubtedly gave a great deal of half time pleasure to our football fans. They have worked hard to set a new trend at Lawrence High: as our first drill squad, they have contributed much to the progress of our school. There could be no finer display of school spirit anywhere.

On your mark . . . get set . . .

Audrey Minsky and Terry Wazlaw ask if there's room for more.

. . . keeping in step . . .

"Just call me Betty Crocker," says Audrey Ralph.

Home Economics Club

Lawrence High girls who are enrolled in the Home Economics course learn a great deal about the efficient management of a household. They study cooking, sewing, elementary nursing, and fundamental bookkeeping. They also have an opportunity to increase their knowledge by joining the Home Economics Club.

Although quite a lot of material is covered in class, there are many other things which can be looked into in depth by a group of students who have a real interest in their subject matter. Girls who are members of the Home Economics Club can cover material which is not required class work. Needless to say, this club provides the girls with knowledge which will be of much use to them in their future lives.

Giselle Lavoie is the perfect model.

United Foreign Language Club

Being a stranger in a strange place is no fun, especially if one has difficulty in speaking the language that is spoken by everyone else. Lawrence High offers courses for non-English speaking students, but these courses provide learning, not socializing. Social life is important, however, and because of this, the United Foreign Language Club was formed. Members of this club speak both English and a foreign language. They are able to communicate with non-English speaking students, to befriend them, and to help them adjust to a new life and language. Club members also improve their own language skills and, as a result, do better in language classes.

It can be seen that the United Foreign Language Club does a great deal of good for everyone involved. Most important of its functions, however, is obviously the work that the club does for foreign students. While it does not completely fill the gap caused by not speaking the prevalent language, it does make non-English speaking students feel a little more at home—and, when one thinks of it, that can mean quite a lot.

Odette Hamaoui and Paula Parnagian prove that women's lib has not yet reached Lawrence High.

Alumni Secretaries

Certainly, if there is anywhere in Lawrence High School a group of unsung heroines, the Alumni Secretaries fill the bill. They work quietly and constantly at a very important job—keeping the Alumni aware that the high school still exists, even though they themselves have graduated. Alumni money is desperately needed to offer the scholarships that hard working students apply for year after year, and the secretaries are in the business of sending gentle reminders. A lot of young scholarship winners owe a vote of thanks to these hard-working young ladies.

Miss Greene gives Maureen Gilbert some of her expert advice.

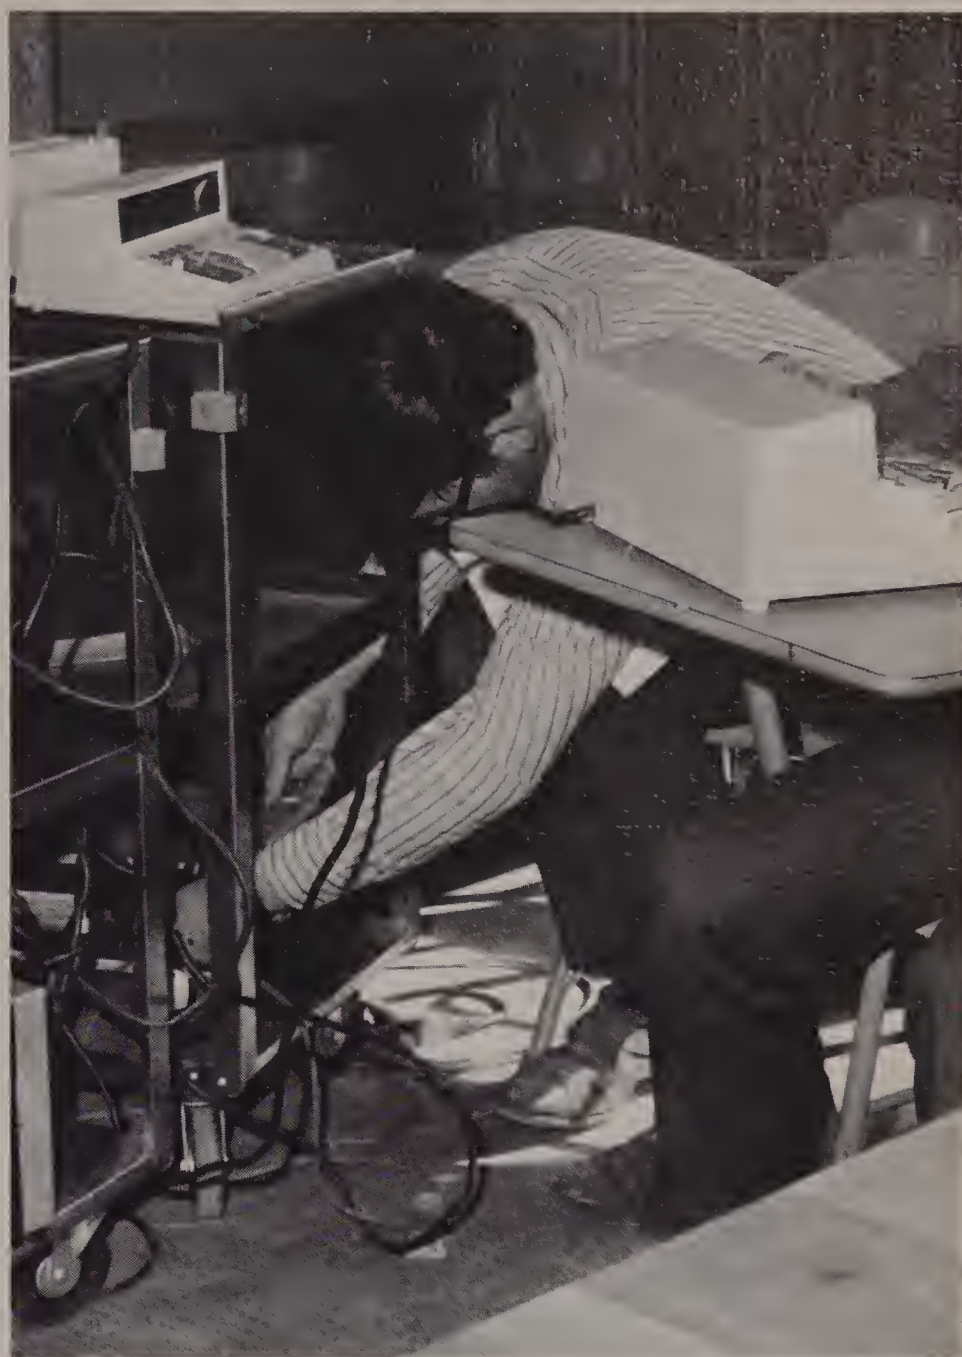

"Well, that takes care of the class of '45," Toni Orefice tells Maria Hidalgo.

"Has anyone found the answer to number 2 yet?"

Math Tutors

Lawrence High School is very proud of its new math tutor program, an organization run entirely by members on a volunteer basis, with Lynn Turton the organizer. It's a living example of "People helping people" to a clear understanding of mathematics. Older pupils meet with freshmen and sophomores in the math lab, to help them understand what it's all about. The program has been eminently successful, as better marks in math indicate. It has also created new friends among the students, an equally fulfilling goal.

Blue and White

Talented yearbook staff, witty captions, original layouts, sparkling write-ups, extremely capable photographers, meeting deadlines, crack advertising staff, super advisor, cooperation, sweat, productive meetings at Miss Horner's house, fresh ideas, iron fisted editor, a tear or two, earth-shaking theme, decorative cover, dynamic section editors, tender-loving care, worn-out pencils, constructive criticism, one-inch squares, compromises, daring innovations, common sense, Columbia competition, and pure work.

Put it all together and you've got a truly fantastic yearbook—better luck next year!

Sports

Perhaps the most important single factor which contributes to the success of a team is togetherness. Individual performance is vital, but one player does not win a game. Working together day by day, the team functions as a closely knit unit. Beginners are confronted by vast horizons that are new to them, aided by the veterans who share their knowledge and experience with the rookies. The result is the creation of a cooperative atmosphere, and now the team functions as a whole.

"The 1970 Football Season will mark the end of Lawrence class A ball." This was the prediction of almost every paper around us. This prediction was changed by the firm dedication of about thirty-five men.

The Lancers who started the season with little hope of one win shocked the city with win after win for four weeks. The team, labelled the "cardiac kids", always put on a good show for fans. In their first four wins the team squeaked by Manchester Central, Peabody, Lynn English, and Beverly. The total margin of victory was only seven points. Then the Lancers were again put under the hex of the Salem Witches. The team regained their poise and in the next game with intra-city rival Central Catholic, the team pulled out a fourth quarter win. Then the Lancers, already tired from a tough season, dropped their last three games to Manchester Memorial, Haverhill, and Lowell. The team ended with a 5-4 record.

The Lancers veteran backfield: Tom Saab, Ray Preston, Randy Hart, Gary Helmerson, Mike Bova, and Busty Borrelli.

This proved that the Lancers could win even if everything was against them. Some of the things that were against the team were inexperience, lack of depth, poor size, and finally a tough class A schedule. This is what Coach Fred Dennen had to look forward to in September. Although criticized every day and constantly living in the fear of being run out of town, Dennen worked hard. He viewed films, read books, and lived football every day of the season. True, he didn't have much to work with but what he had was enough for him. In these boys he planted pride and the desire to win. In the end it all paid off. Even though this may be Coach Dennen's last year at Lawrence, he planted a desire and pride at the school. A pride to win and a desire to be the best at whatever you do. For this desire and for our fine record we say, thanks to Coach Fred Dennen, our school's unsung hero.

Indoor Track

The Lawrence High School Indoor Track Team finished with a record of one win, six losses for a seventh place finish in the North Shore Indoor Track League. The Lancers' lone win of the season came in their first meet versus Salem High, as they edged the witches 45-41. For the second year in a row, the Lancers suffered a heart-breaking loss to arch-rival Lowell. They just missed a major upset, being edged by the Red Raiders, the second best team in the league, by a score of 44-42. The Lancers gave the Lowell team a battle right down to the closing relay event. At that point, Lawrence led 42-39, but they couldn't beat the Lowell relay team, which won the event, giving them five points and the meet.

The 1971 edition of the Lancers was paced by outstanding performances on the part of seniors Jim Kent and Paul Alsup. Once again, Jimmy was undefeated in dual meet competition. In the process he set two new records in the North Shore Indoor Track League with time of 2:19.3 in the 1,000 yard run and 4:22.7 in the mile run. His mile time was also a new track record at the Phillips Cage. Jim was also Class C state champion in the mile.

Wrestling

1971 Co-Captains

This was the sixth year of wrestling at Lawrence High, and it proved to be the best. It also was the winningest sport at Lawrence High finishing with a 12-3 record. The matmen competed in the Northeastern Massachusetts Section, which is the toughest in the state. Some of the highlights were beating North Andover 42-6 and North Reading 47-3.

The squad was led by Co-Captains Tom Kalil and Gary Helmerson, and seniors Rick Soucy, Ed Rodriguez, Joe Dugan, Jim Kopacz, and Paul Brady.

In the Northeastern Massachusetts Sectional Tournament, Lawrence was well represented when Rick Soucy took second, Ken Najem third, Tom Kalil, Gary Helmerson, and Mike Matthews fifth, and John Nochnuk, John Lahoud, and Len Trignani sixth.

Lawrence had two wrestlers, Rick Soucy and Ken Najem, competing in the State Championships at Wayland, Mass.

Although the Lancers had many newcomers to the sport of wrestling on their team, they were able to win as many games as they did due to the great coaching of Bob Fitzgerald and Assistant Coach Al Matthews.

Hockey

The 1970-71 L.H.S. Hockey team had some exciting moments in its season. This is the first year in its five year history that inexperience, has played a major role in the outcome, although the future looks bright—because of its returning lettermen.

The high scoring line of center Bernie Jozokos, right wing Dave Rozumek, and left wing Ben Roberge, played a major part in its three victories. Dick Latour and Pete Michaud showed good defensive ability.

The three victories for Lawrence were over Vocational 7-3, Ipswich 6-3, and a major upset over Fitchburg 3-0, in which Goalie Kevin Mullins was outstanding.

The Lancers are looking forward to a better win column next year.

Boys' Basketball

"Close, but not quite," might be the best way to describe the 1970-1971 edition of the Lawrence High School Basketball Team. Under head coach Fred Moriarty the boys gave it their all, but unfortunately it was to no avail.

One of the major disadvantages of the Lancers was their lack of height—as they gave away vital inches every time they stepped onto the court.

Even though the Lancers had a wonless season, the games they lost were not routs. A combined margin of only six points made the difference in the contests against Peabody, Beverly, and Lynn English.

The games were well attended by the fans, who turned out to see their favorite players in action.

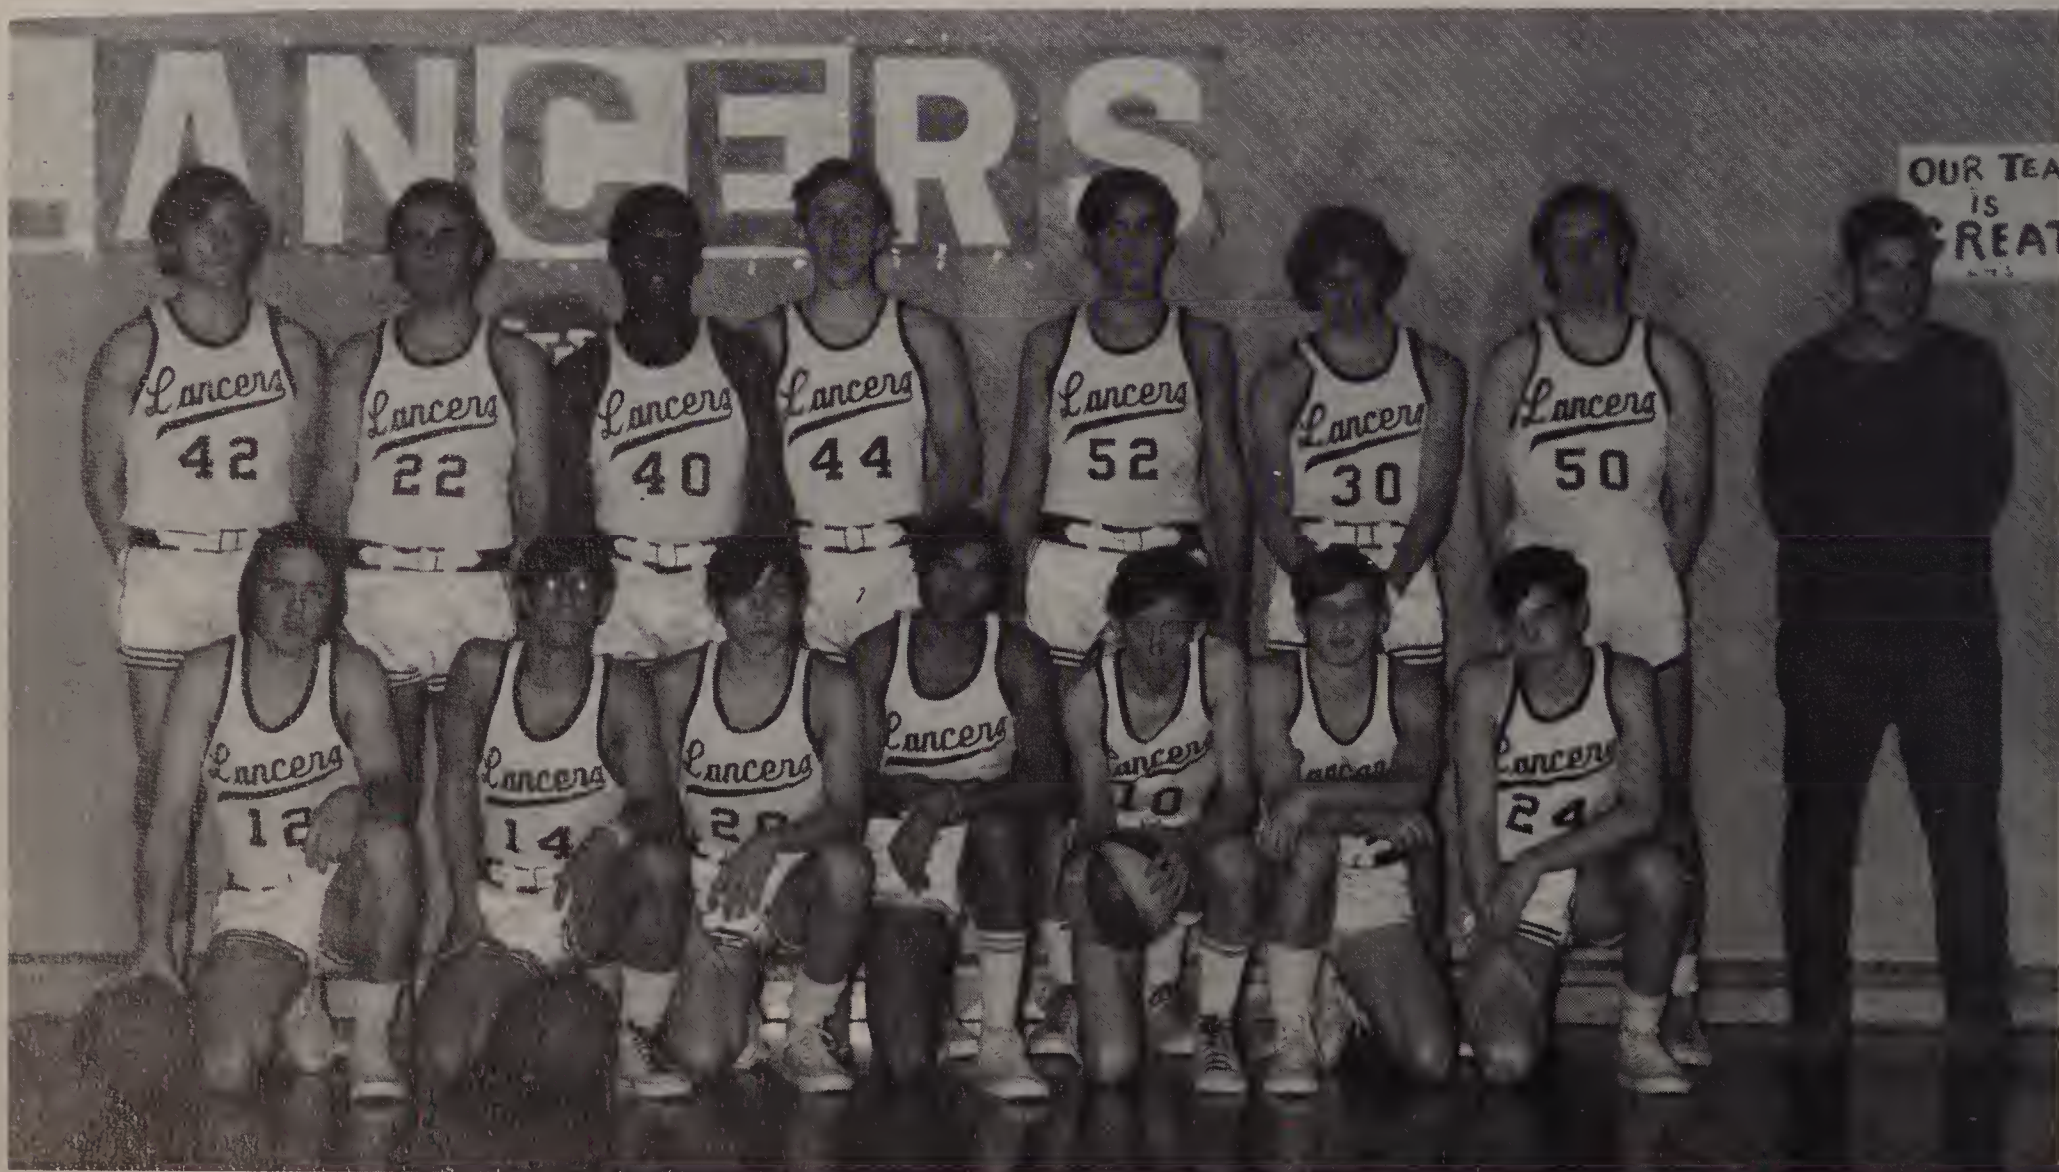

Some of the key men on the Lancer squad were high scoring guards Jay O'Neil and Alan Houle, sophomore Tony Silva, and big rebounder Phil Fernandez, Ray Preston, and Bob Massi.

As for next year, judging by an impressive junior varsity record, the Lancers will win their share of ballgames.

When the Lawrence High School Girls' Basketball team won the Y.W.C.A. Silvercup Basketball Tournament in 1970, it became apparent that there was a good chance for the girls, after two years of intramural sports, to be able to form a varsity team and compete in league action. Mrs. Reynold's devotion to the girls helped greatly and she became head coach with Miss Virginia McHale as her assistant. The school board voted for uniforms, warm-up suits, timers, basketballs, official scoreboard—the works—right down to navy blue shoelaces. Many of the girls had been with the group since intramural days and with the closing of some of the parochial high schools the team acquired some good talent. But somehow the varsity had a streak of bad luck and ended the season with a losing record. The junior varsity remained undefeated, however, in league competition and shows promise of a great varsity team in the future.

Although the record shows a losing team, being a member of the varsity basketball squad, with all the fun, tears, and experience has been well worth all the practice and defeats, for playing for L.H.S. is an honor.

Seniors

Our four years in Lawrence High School have passed very quickly, and now it is time to take our own separate chosen roads. Whether we see each other often, or never again, we shall all share a common bond for the rest of our lives—all of the memories we have of our four years together as the class of '71. Do you remember what babies we were four years ago, how naive, how ready to toddle after anyone who knew how to get from one room to another? Since last fall, we have been the seniors, the leaders. Yes, we started out walking and learned to run—but we know we've just begun.

In Memoriam

Ronald F. Wolfe

In November of 1970 a tragic car accident took the life of a Lawrence High School senior, Ronald Wolfe. As a member of our class, Ronald would have graduated in the spring of this year. His death was a great shock to students and teachers alike, and he is greatly missed by all who knew him.

"Friends depart, and memory takes them to her caverns, pure and deep."

Mrs. Elizabeth A. Munro

You're about to take a giant step forward into your future. We think we can make it the bright one you want it to be at New England Telephone. With a job that's every bit as big as your ambition. You see, we need people. With all kinds of talents. And especially, people who really want to get going with their future. And want to be rewarded with automatic raises. Your High School diploma is all the experience you need. If you want a job and a future that's tailored to your talent... along with unusually generous fringe benefits, stop in and see your guidance counselor. Ask when and where you can apply for an interview with the people who want to make your future as happy as you want it to be.

The future arrives sooner at Raytheon.

When you work at the forefront of technology, you work on "tomorrow" every day.

That's what we do at Raytheon. With amazing results. For example, Radarange® microwave ovens for the home. A miniature furnace the size of a two-pound coffee can. Motionless radars that "see" everywhere at once.

Our facilities stretch around the world. And our activities extend from space exploration to pollution control.

Raytheon. The company that makes things happen.
